TAIWAN CELEBRITIES SEND AID TO HOSPITALS

In June, model Qian Shuaijun personally reached out to ResMed Taiwan after understanding the need for intensive ventilators. She then donated eight ResMed Astral 150 ventilators to Taipei Medical University Hospital, which treats patients affected by COVID-19, from children to the elderly.

In July, movie director Nelson Yeh and the cast and crew of his two movies donated two ResMed Astral 150 ventilators to two different hospitals. The generous donations also included daily necessities such as beverages and instant noodles.

DRIVING DIAGNOSIS DESPITE SLEEP LABS CLOSURES

With hospital sleep labs impacted by the pandemic, ResMed Thailand introduced "From Hospital to Hotels", an innovative care experience where consumers checked into hotels across Thailand for a staycation package featuring an end-to-end therapy service from screening, consultation, and therapy recommendations by healthcare professionals. ResMed's solutions such as ApneaLink, AirSense10 4G and AirView were also incorporated into this pathway.

PHILIPPINES

INITIATIVES FOR DISEASE EDUCATION AND AWARENESS FOR HIGH-RISK PATIENTS DURING THE PANDEMIC.

In April, we collaborated with the Philippine Society of Nutritionists and Dietitians to highlight the risk of OSA to patients with type-2 diabetes, cardiovascular disease, and obesity. On Facebook, patients were encouraged to do a home sleep test in order to drive early diagnosis of OSA.

We sponsored a virtual event for the Philippine Society of Sleep Medicine's 14th Annual Convention in May. Spanning three days, healthcare practitioners attended the program learning about Sleep Health - Timing, Duration, Quality and Efficiency. Senior Clinical Marketing Manager Brett McLaren conducted a symposium on "Ambulatory approaches to Diagnosis and Management of Obstructive Sleep Apnea" for doctors to network, attend webinars, panel discussions and more.

Together, let's move forward towards the New Normal.
